An Encouraging Word

I talked to a man recently who told me he was living the "good life." He said he had a great salary, money in the bank, a big house, a nice car, and goes on a cruise every year. In his mind, he was living the "good life". This is what our culture says will make you happy and fulfilled. Yet we know this does not work. We all know people who have all of the above but remain empty and unfulfilled in life. We all know people who have all of the above but are desperately unhappy, stressed out, and their families are falling apart. We know that what some people call the "American Dream" can quickly turn into the "American Nightmare!"

As I get older and learn more about how God desires for us to live, I am seeing that the "good life" is not about the good things you have. The "good life" is about the good things you do. I like to call the "good life" the "God life." It is living the life that God wants you to live. I want to encourage you this week to seek the "God life" and not the "good life." For when you are living the "God life" you will discover that it is better than good!

Be encouraged,
Pastor Rob
